CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERSHIP EXCEEDS LAST YEAR'S BY 104

145 Secured Friday Makes Total 610 and Workers Resolve to "See Everybody That Should Be Seen" By Monday Night and Make It 800.

Here's the score made in the Chamber of Commerce membership campaign as reported last night and compared with its final score in 1919:

Team No. 1	8
Team No. 2	18
Team No. 3	21
Team No. 4	5
Team No. 5	17
Team No. 6	16
Team No. 7	15
Team No. 8	8
Team No. 9	17
Judge Fowler's Team	20
Total	145
Previously Reported	465
Total to Date	610
Final Score a Year Ago	506
Gain Over 1919	104

"Good work but we are not through. There are lots of men who have not been seen yet, including a number of present members. We should make it 800. It can be done. Will you stick by me to the finish, put in two more days, and see everybody?"

"We will," said the Chamber of Commerce membership campaign workers in a chorus, when Schuyler C. Schultz, the "big boss of the campaign," made this statement and appeal to them at their meeting last night, after 145 memberships had been turned in for the day's work, bringing the total membership up to 610.

So they are at it again today and will continue on Monday in an effort to see everybody who should be seen. There hasn't been anything of the hurrah and hysterics about this campaign that, up to this time, has seemed inseparable from any public appeal for money. The workers worked, earnestly and with grim determination, without wasting any of their energy on noise. They didn't give three cheers for themselves every little while, they applauded sparingly, the best song leader in the city couldn't get more than 10 per cent of them to sing—they were too busy comparing notes and exchanging advice on the actual work they were doing. But they got results—104 members more than were reported at the close of the campaign in 1919.

There were brief addresses by Chairman Schultz, Secretary Hudson, Judge Fowler, Frank R. Powley, J. K. Lencke and M. S. Safford. Mr. Safford outlined plans for the work today and Monday, and "brought down the house" with an imitation of a "hot air orator" delivery the kind of "peppy" speech that used to be fashionable in campaigns.

W. S. McDonough reported that since his report had been turned in two memberships had been taken by the city police department, who had designated Chief Wood and James V. Simpson to represent them.

Mr. Rudderham, head of the L. B. Van Wagenen store, was called on for a speech. He said that in his brief residence here he had been impressed by the fact that those who spoke disrespectfully of Kingston were all Kingston people. The only knockers were Kingstonians. He heard children on — street saying of a poor movie play. "Oh, it's good enough for Kingston." The newcomers he found approving Kingston and working for it. We ought to speak well of our city and it would be well to start in the schools to teach the advantages and beauties of Kingston. Fortunately the spirit of undeserved criticism is changing. An improvement is apparent, but there is room for further improvement. "Personally, I am pleased with Kingston. I have been told it is cold toward the stranger, but I do not find it so. I have been treated well and I thank those who have made Kingston so pleasant for me."

J. K. Lencke of the Apollo Magneto Co., called on for a speech, said he couldn't make a speech and was without experience in Chamber of Commerce work. He began business in Chicago in a small way and then spent 20 years in Russia, and they didn't allow any Chamber of Commerce, or anything with initiative, there. He got out of Russia without getting into jail, which was more than a great many did, and was now in Kingston. One thing he did know—that many things that cannot be done individually can be done collectively and if a community would get together, select representatives and get behind them with the money that community could do things. He had heard a lot of talk that the Chamber of Commerce couldn't get 700 members, but it had 610 now, which is a long way toward 700 and the 700 can be had.

HARDING ATTENDS FARMERS' PICNIC

Must Ban Pork Barrels and Have Budget System, He Says, in Telling How His Policies Affect Agriculture—Rural Education Handicapped.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Wilson's Corner, Ohio, Oct. 2.—Here at the junction point of three Ohio counties, Franklin, Madison and Union, Senator Warren G. Harding today addressed a crowd of thousands of farmers and their women folk who came by motor and wagon from miles around to attend an old fashioned picnic and flag raising.

The senator motored here from Marion, fifty odd miles away, through clear, cold weather to attend the celebration. It was a distinctly rural audience and Senator Harding addressed them on topics relative to rural economy life, extending on his agricultural policies as outlined in previous speeches.

Senator Harding said his agricultural policy was broadly divided into three phases:

1—Do all that is possible to make prosperous the land owning farmer and oppose the menace of increasing tenantry.

2—Improve the means of distribution of farm products and encourage cooperative buying and marketing on the part of farmers.

3—Protect American farm products against influxes of cheaper foreign products by a properly adjusted protective tariff.

"It is also the nation's business," he said, "to concern itself with the social welfare of farm life. We want a prosperity for the American farmer which will allow him to bid for normal farm labor.

"This year in many sections of the United States girls, mothers and aged women have worked in the fields and much of the work has been too hard to be consistent with wholesome maternity and American standards."

Development of inland waterways, not competition to the railroads, but as a co-partner in solving the transportation problems, was urged by Senator Harding.

"We must," he said, "turn our backs on the system of pork barrel appropriations and under a national budget system make our expenditures according to the counsel of a proper commission, whose aim will be to develop a true national system of international and inland waterways."

"We must face the fact," he observed, "that illiteracy is twice as common in the country as it is in the city and that the opportunity for country boys and girls to get a high school education is all too limited."

While we have boasted of America being a melting pot, he concluded, we have sadly neglected the furtherance of education which is the true bulwark against extreme radicalism.

Senator Harding will motor back to Marion late today.

ALASKA IGLOOS ALL HAVE STILLS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—"Every igloo and snowbank in Alaska hides a still or a liquor cache."

This is the prohibition condition of the land of aurora borealis, in the words of William H. Jordan, Federal prohibition agent, who has returned from a trip north where he investigated rumors that Alaska was not as Alaska should be as regards enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

"When the snow stops falling in Alaska the territory will be dry" is the encouraging report of Agent Jordan. "The old timer in Alaska has it all over the prohibition agent. He can dive into a snowbank and get a drink. The Federal agent dives in after him and gets pneumonia.

"From what I saw I would say that to enforce prohibition in Alaska it would be necessary to get a Federal agent on snowshoes for every Eskimo ice palace. The Eskimos have learned the tricks of the home-made still from their American friends.

"Raiding a still in Alaska is a futile task. They start another one in the next snowbank. As long as fermentation will produce alcohol it seems to me that the frontier countries will hahve their spiritus frumenti:

"There is plenty of booze, but it is hard to find. The people who are well known get it and the stranger has to go out and dig in the snow.

"The great problem of the Alaskan is how to get wine. The country does not produce grapes. There is still some wine to be had in Alaska. If the Federal agents follow up the situation closely enough they may be able to cut off the supply of grape juice and limit the residents to home-made whiskey."

Jordan succinctly remarked that Alaska is not much different from the rest of the country.

He believes that if the government will send three regiments of Federal agents with several reams of snow-shoes it might be able to curtail the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

MRS. H. D. INGALLS DIED FRIDAY

Was Last Survivor of Children of Peter J. DuBois and Widow of One of Kingston's First Homeopaths—Active In Musical and Social Circles and Charitable Work.

Henrietta DuBois, widow of the late Dr. Frederick W. Ingalls, died Friday afternoon at her home, No. 679 Broadway, after a long illness. Some time ago Mrs. Ingalls was stricken with paralysis, but during the spring and summer months her condition improved and she was able to enjoy the companionship of many of her friends.

Mrs. Ingalls was well known in Kingston, where she spent most of her life. She was the only daughter of the late Peter J. DuBois and Harriet Hendricks, his wife, and on her paternal side was a descendant of Louis DuBois, one of the patentees of New Paltz. Peter J. DuBois in his day was one of the most prominent and wealthy residents of Kingston. He was born on the DuBois farm at Twaalfskill, now Wilbur, and early in life became a merchant tailor. Later he engaged in other businesses here and afterward on account of ill health went to Luzerne county, Pennsylvania, where he engaged in lumber manufacturing. He returned to Kingston some years later and was prominently identified with banking interests, but after a few years returned to Scranton, Pa., where for a number of years he was successfully engaged in machinery manufacturing, coal and other business. After accumulating a fortune, he returned to Kingston, where he died a number of years ago.

Of five children of Peter J. DuBois, Mrs. Ingalls was the last survivor. She married Dr. Ingalls on May 18, 1870, and since that time had occupied the DuBois home, 679 Broadway. Dr. Ingalls, who was a native of Schenectady county, came to Kingston in 1863 and at that time was one of two homeopathic physicians in this section, the only other physician of that school of medicine being Dr. Garret DuBois Crispell. Dr. Ingalls for many years was one of the best known physicians in Kingston and was prominently identified with various medical societies in this section and throughout the state. He was active in the Masonic fraternity, serving as Master of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M.; High Priest of Mt. Horeb Chapter, No. 75, R. A. M., and being prominent in the higher orders of Masonry.

Mrs. Ingalls for many years was actively interested in all public and charitable movements in Kingston. She possessed great talent for music and for a number of years was a staunch supporter and active member of the Kingston Philharmonic Society. Later she was actively connected with the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A.; the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Dutch Church, of which church she was a life long member; Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Clinton Chapter, No. 445, Order of the Eastern Star, of which she was a charter member.

She was a woman of high ideals, devoted to her family, of gracious and sympathetic manner, who possessed a wide circle of friends and acquaintances whose admiration for her was constant. She is survived by three sons, Frederick DuBois Ingalls of Marshaltown, Iowa, Dr. Orlando Ingalls and Wilson C. Ingalls of this city, and one daughter, Miss Mary H. Ingalls of this city. The funeral will take place from her late residence on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

SENATOR CRANE DIES AT HOME

Heart Trouble and General Breakdown Caused End at 4 O'clock—Long Prominent in Republican Party.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dalton, Mass., Oct. 2.—Winthrop Murray Crane, former governor of Massachusetts and former United States senator from this state, died at his home at 4 o'clock this morning. The former senator collapsed at the ceremonies of notification for Governor Coolidge, Republican nominee for vice president. Ex-Senator Crane announced shortly before the Republican convention, which he attended as a "big four" delegate, that he would retire from active politics immediately upon the conclusion of his term as national committeeman.

Members of his family and Dr. Brace W. Paddock of Pittsfield were with him when he died. Death was due to heart trouble and general breakdown.

Mr. Crane, who was 67 years old, had been confined to his bed since September 8. For a time his condition was considered alarming. After a while his condition became improved, however, and his physicians issued optimistic statements. Senator Crane, a Republican leader, was forced by his sickness to give up his activities in politics. His collapse at Northampton was given, at the time, as being caused by excessive heat, but later it was found that his heart was affected. Three heart specialists have been in consultation with Dr Paddock of Pittsfield, the family physician. They were Drs. Hugh Williams and John Jenks Thomas of Boston and Frank S. Meara, of New York.

BULL FIGHTS RESUMED.

Will Go Far To Suppress Mexican Disorder is Belief.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, Oct. 2.—The resumption of bull fights, discontinued under the Carranza regime, will go far toward suppressing crime and benefiting the moral and economic condition of the poor of the capital, according to many Mexican reformers.

Far from being a debasing influence, they say, the bull fighting season makes a decided decline in drunkenness and an increase in efficiency of labor. They explain their contention by pointing out that Mexican workmen, as a general rule, cannot afford both to attend the bull fight and frequent the pulque shops.

Bull fights as a general rule are held on Sundays and holidays. If an attractive Corrida is scheduled, the inhabitants of the Colonia de Bolsa and other of the poorer sections work and save conscientiously throughout the week in order to attend. After the fight is over they return home and show up promptly for work Monday morning.

If no bull fight is in prospect, however, the larger part of the week's earning is spent in the pulque shops and cantines. Police records show these idle Sundays are productive of many disorders, robberies, shooting and cutting affrays, and failure of workmen to report for work Monday.

Rodolfo Gaona, the greatest of the Mexican espadas, still is probably the most popular figure in Mexico, although he has not visited the country for years. His career in Spain is followed with the deepest interest by all classes, as are those of Belmonte, Pastor and other Spanish matadors.

TO ELECT COMRADE.

Judge Miller's Classmates Raise Fund of $250.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 2.—Classmates of Judge Nathan L. Miller in the old Cortland county school, have started a fund to aid the campaign to elect their old comrade governor of the state. Joseph R. Grimes, who has taken up the matter, wrote to Joseph E. Davis, treasurer of the Republican state committee:

"We have raised $250 among the boys who knew Nate Miller as a school boy and who are anxious to see him where he belongs in the governor's chair at Albany. But we don't know whether the money should be turned over to the state or national committee."

Mr. Davis replied that the money should be turned over to the state committee, adding:

"The state committee is collecting funds for the campaign and all contributions will be gratefully received."

FLOOD CAUSES $50,000 DAMAGE

Floods brought on by the heavy rain of Thursday caused damage totalling nearly $50,000 along the Hudson river near Albany Friday. Yachts and floats at the Albany Yacht Club were damaged to the extent of $10,000. At least seven launches were swept past the club Friday morning.

A rise of seven feet for the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, was reported by the weather bureau. The rain which fell Thursday and Friday was said to be the hardest October storm since October 3, 1903, while the rise of the river was said to be the most rapid since the devastating flood of 1913.

The river near Albany was cluttered with stray bits of lumber, carcasses of dogs, cats and chickens, wrecked sheds and parts of fences and docks.

There was a swift current in the creek here Friday and the tide was the highest in some time.

AT THE THEATERS.

"Virgin of Stamboul" Excellent—Harry Carey at Auditorium.

It has been a long time since Priscilla Dean has been seen on the screen but her long absence was entirely forgotten at Keeney's last night when she gave such a remarkable performance in "The Virgin of Stamboul." Monday George Walsh, the acrobatic screen star, will be presented in a comedy drama entitled "Sink or Swim."

Mae Murray in "Twin Pawns" and Juanita Hansen in "The Lost City" offers the Auditorium patrons a double production tonight. Harry Carey in "Blue Streak McCoy" is the special attraction at the Auditorium Monday.

Eva Novak and Harry Gribbon, two recognized players in the screen world, are coming to the Kingston Opera House Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with the cutest baby that ever showed a dimpled face in pictures. Miss Novak and Mr. Gribbon will arrive with the little tot accompanied by a bevy of beautiful gowned-up babies, when the comedy picture de luxe, "Up in Mary's Attic," is presented here.

Fun and heart throbs are blended in delightful proportions in "Lightnin'," the famous comedy success which John Golden will present at the Opera House next Thursday night.

"Tweedledum and Tweedledee"

We understand that the expression "tweedledum and tweedledee" is used to designate two things between which there is the smallest possible difference, and is applicable to disputes over trifles. It is also applied to nonsensical discussions such as the old logicians indulged in, e. g., when a farmer takes a pig to market, is the pig going with the farmer or the farmer going with the pig?—The Wire Message.

UNIQUE MEMORIAL TO ANCESTORS

Massive Block of Native Bluestone to be Erected in Old Coxing Burying Ground Near High Falls Where Some of Judge Clearwater's Forbears Lie.

Hurley, Oct. 2.—Judge Clearwater is having made at Reuner's marble yard in this village a memorial to those ancestors who are buried in the old Coxing burying ground near High Falls. The memorial is a unique one, consisting of a huge block of fine grained native bluestone, especially selected for this purpose from the Dunn quarries of Marbletown. The stone is six feet high, three feet wide and sixteen inches thick, weighing about two tons and a quarter. The face will be smoothed, but the back, edges and top will be of rough ashlar. It will contain the following inscription:

"IN
ABRAHAM KLAARWATER.
1699. 1782.
Serjeant in the Provincial Army, during the Colonial Wars.
Dragoon in the Marbletown Troop of Horse during the war of the Revolution.
LISBETH SCHOONMAKER.
Daughter of Capta. Frederick Schoonmaker, of the Continental Army.
THOMAS KLAARWATER.
1757. 1830.
Trooper in the Marbletown Horse, Soldier in the Continental Army, and his wives,
LEAH WOOD.
ELIZABETH GRAY.
Fide et Fortitudine."

The members of the judge's family to whose memory this memorial will be erected are all buried in the old Coxing burying ground, and at their graves stand old lichen covered bluestone head stones. The inscriptions upon these stones have become almost obliterated by the storms and frosts of years, and the judge is unwilling either to remove them or to have them polished or re-cut. He intends to leave them as they are, and where they stand, simply placing the new memorial in the center of them. The old Coxing burying ground is one of the most picturesquely situated of the old Ulster county family grave yards. It is on an elevation above the Rondout and the Wallkill, and commands a superb view of the Catskill and the Shawangunk Mountains. Members of other old Ulster county families are buried there, notably Captain Frederick Schoonmaker of the Continental Army, and his descendants.

EVERY LITTLE HELPS

And Needlework Guild Has Large Field This Winter.

The time is now here when the officers and directors of that very helpful organization, the Needlework Guild will start in with the work of gathering in the garments for the sick and needy ones of the city. Very many there are who will be unable to provide themselves with suitable clothing for the coming winter. It is hoped that more of the well-to-do people will become interested in this splendid work, realizing the increasing need from year to year, and will become members of the guild by contributing annually the two inexpensive garments which make the annual dues. Every little helps in the great need of the sick and suffering ones of our city.

The business meeting of the officers and directors of the guild will be held at the home of Mrs. Nelson Smith, 55 Clinton avenue, on Thursday, October 7th, at 3 o'clock and a good attendance is desired.

"Ouch."

Work of tearing down the florist building at Broadway and Orchard street to make room for a modern garage is now underway. This morning two pedestrians stopped to watch a man removing the large glass from the roof. Remarked one pedestrian, "It's some job."

"Yep," replied the other "rather paneful."

CIDER AND ENFORCEMENT.

Commissioner Williams To Favor Makers Where Possible.

A committee of representatives of the principal organizations of apple growers and shippers headed by C. R. White, director of the Bureau of Cooperative Associations of the State Division of Foods and Markets, spent two days this week in Washington in conference with officials of the U. S. Internal Revenue Department regarding their interpretation of the application of the Volstead Act to the manufacture of cider. They presented the serious situation confronting the apple growers due to the ruling that made apple juice manufacturers liable for the percentage of alcohol above five tenths of one per cent that may be found in their products at any time in the future regardless of its condition when sold by them. Internal Revenue Commissioner Williams expressed the opinion that there would be a bigger demand than ever this year for apple juice, and promised to go as far as possible under the Volstead Act, toward removing obstacles to its manufacture.

"THE TOOLS AT HAND"

In the course of a speech at the Union League Club in New York city on Wednesday evening, Judge Nathan L. Miller concisely states Republican principles in national and state affairs when he says: "You have got to do something more than reorganize to stop the increasing cost of government," and further, that "we should be slow to pin entire faith on reorganization. I believe that more will be accomplished by using the tools at hand than by devoting all the time to seeking better ones."

Even the slightest consideration of the time that has been devoted to experiments in state and nation makes apparent the force of Judge Miller's statements. The experiments have worked badly and cost the people millions of dollars. We have been under the leadership of impractical dreamers whose principal claim to distinction has been a new plan, a new dream, another fiasco.

"The truth is that no plan will work out automatically," says Judge Miller. "A bad plan in competent hands may work well, but the best of plans in bad hands will always work ill." While Governor Smith promised to reduce the cost of government, he now says it cannot be done without re-organizing the state government, but while he has been devoting himself to this subject, the cost of government has gone on mounting. Judge Miller's practical plan, if elected, is to address himself at once "to the problem of making both ends meet," and "will not seek excuses for the failure to do it."

Judge Miller does not accept the Smith invitation to attack, because the judge is asking support for what he himself proposes to do, "and not because of anything which somebody else has failed to do." To Governor Smith's allegation that he would have done great things for the state but for a hostile legislature, Judge Miller replies that he proposes to secure the cooperation of the legislature in the inauguration of policies which he believes to be for the interests of the state. Such legislative cooperation will not be secured by playing personal or partisan politics, or by personal dictation, but it can be secured by an effort to be fair and to deal with every problem on its merits.

National issues are paramount in this campaign and Judge Miller believes the issue raised by President Wilson's insistence upon the league of nations covenant without change, supplemented as it has been by the San Francisco platform and the perfect accord established between the President and Mr. Cox is paramount to any other issue, and it is more important that the issue be settled right than it is that either Governor Smith or himself be elected governor. State power has been subordinated to expanding federal power "very much as Mr. Wilson, if he could have his way, would subordinate our nationality to a new world government of ever expanding powers." The national administration which would not prepare for war has been equally unwilling to reduce the civil establishment to a peace basis when the war was over. "This carnival of waste," says Judge Miller, "is due to the traditional incompetency of the party in power, and to the fact that the administration is in the hands of men whose states pay but a small part of the taxes, and whose interests are to spend and not to save."

In comparatively few words, Judge Miller has made clear the national and state issues in this campaign. The mind which so clearly comprehends and so tersely states the issues, with their causes and their remedies, without digressing to personalities, is the type of constructive mind needed for our state government for the next two years. With all the issue which burden public life nowadays, it is refreshing to find a statesman who proposes to work "using the tools at hand."

Mr. Cox says he stands squarely on the San Francisco platform, but that is a very general statement. Won't he please tell us whether he is as squarely on that plank which confirms the traditional attitude of the Democratic party toward a protective tariff—which is that a protective tariff is unconstitutional? Does Mr. Cox believe that a protective tariff is unconstitutional, and, if elected president, will he veto a tariff bill that includes protective features? Will he tell the country that he believes it unconstitutional to impose a protective duty on dyestuffs, on wool, on peanuts, on vegetable oils that compete with cottonseed oil, on cutlery on chemicals or a thousand and one other commodities that can be produced in America but which, in normal times, cannot be produced in full competition with the cheap labor of Europe and Asia? Will Mr Cox tell fully and frankly where he stands on the question of the constitutionality of a protective tariff? If he disagrees with his party platform on this subject, how many of its other pledges is he ready to reject?

MORAN SCHOOL NOTES.

Growing Need For Accountants—Special Training Great Asset.

An increasing demand for bookkeepers and accountants is reported by the Moran Business School, Burgevin Building. The time of most business men—retailers and small dealers in particular—is so taken up in buying, selling, etc. that they cannot give to the record-keeping branch of the business the attention required to keep it up to date. They, as a matter of course, apply to the business schools for help—for trained workers who can handle their books systematically and intelligently. This condition is becoming more and more apparent as the months roll by, and it should arouse more than passing interest in the minds of young people who are planning business careers. It should, moreover, serve as an incentive to them to get this special training as soon as possible at an institution such as the Moran Business School, which specializes in training for just such positions.

The practical experience gained in even the small and seemingly unimportant positions is most valuable to the young person entering the field of business. The Journal of Accountancy, official organ of the American Institute of Accountants and a publication of the highest standing, has this to say editorially:

"The accounting profession is probably the best paid in the world, if there be a profession in which the average compensation is higher, it is not known to us. There is need for accountants. There is ample compensation for accountants. There is no prospect that the supply will overtake the demand within the lifetime of even the youngest of us."

The management of the Moran School will be pleased to give to prospective students and their parents a full explanation of its practical, up-to-the-minute course in bookkeeping and accounting. In its business department is being used the latest method that the market affords—the same system used by practically all the leading schools throughout the United States.

MAKING LIQUID AIR.

Light on Character of Fluid So Cold That it Feels Hot.

Few people who have seen "liquid air" demonstrated for exhibition purposes know that it is manufactured in fairly large quantities for commercial use at a retail value of about five dollars a gallon. It is made in the basement of the large building occupied by the Research Laboratory of the Schenectady plant of the General Electric Company in quantities averaging about twenty quarts a day. Air is pumped from the interior of the building in a container where it is forced through caustic potash. This partially absorbs the moisture from the air. It next goes through a four-cylinder compressor. In the first cylinder it is compressed under a sixty-pound pressure, in the second, the pressure is three hundred pounds; in the third, nine hundred pounds, and in the fourth and last, three thousand pounds. The compressed air has now become very hot, reaching a temperature of 200 degrees, F. above zero. It is then water-cooled to about 62 degrees, and forced through a tank containing caustic potash and calcium chloride, which removes the remaining moisture. Next, it is iced in a tank, the air running through small copper coils surrounded by chopped ice, much the same as in a drinking water cooler. The final step is now reached when the air is sent into liquidifier, where it is reduced to a temperature of 320 degrees below zero. It is the extreme cold which makes the liquid. From the liquidifier it is poured into thermos bottles ready for use. It referring to low temperatures it is interesting to note that grain alcohol freezes at perhaps the lowest temperature of any liquid, 237 degrees below zero and gasoline at 220 degrees. Mercury freezes at about 39 degrees below zero.

Liquid air is used by the General Electric Company as the final step in creating as near as possible a vacuum in X-ray and incandescent lamp globes. After all the air possible has been pumped from the globes the container is immersed in liquid air, while electricity is sent through the wires in the globes. The electricity heats the gases, or particles of air still in the globes. The cold outside vessel surrounded by liquid air attracts them from the globes. After this process continues for a short time the globes are sealed and are ready for use.

It Lasts

Threaded Rubber Insulation has to stand a test as severe as the test of a lineman's rubber gloves.

After such a test you can be sure it will protect the plates and last as long as the battery.

Threaded Rubber Insulation makes "bone dry" shipment and storage of batteries possible. The Still Better Willard Battery—the only battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation—has been selected by 152 manufacturers of cars and trucks.

FRENCH WAR AREA

Must be Reconstructed as First Step to European Stability.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Brussels, Oct. 2.—Reconstruction of the devastated areas of France was described as absolutely essential to the financial readjustment not only of France but of Europe at large by French financial experts in a report submitted to the economic conference in session here.

The report of the American experts pointed out that the United States also suffered financially from the war, though the report added that America's finances were on a relatively sound basis.

LAWS OF NEW YORK.—By Authority. CHAP. 925.

§ 1176. Interlocutory judgment in action to annul a marriage or for divorce. In an action brought for judgment annulling a marriage, or divorcing the parties and dissolving a marriage, the decision of the court or report of the referee must be filed and interlocutory judgment thereon must be entered within fifteen days after the party becomes entitled to file or enter the same, and can not be filed or entered after the expiration of said period of fifteen days unless by order of the court upon application and sufficient cause being shown for the delay. The interlocutory judgment, in the discretion of the court, may provide for the payment of alimony or for the support and maintenance of the children of the marriage until the interlocutory judgment becomes final or until the entry of final judgment; it may include a judgment for costs, when costs are awarded, in which case said judgment for costs shall be docketed by the clerk, and thereupon shall have the same force and effect as if docketed upon the entry of final judgment thereon, except that it shall not be enforceable by execution or punishment until the interlocutory judgment becomes the final judgment or until the entry of final judgment in said action.

§ 1177. Final judgment in action to annul a marriage or for divorce. Three months after the entry of the interlocutory judgment in an action brought for judgment annulling a marriage or divorcing the parties and dissolving a marriage such interlocutory judgment shall become the final judgment as of course unless the decision of the court or report of the referee shall require and the interlocutory judgment shall provide for the entry of final judgment or unless for sufficient cause the court in the meantime shall have otherwise ordered. If the interlocutory judgment provides for the entry of final judgment such final judgment must be entered within thirty days after the expiration of said period of three months and cannot be entered after the expiration of such period of thirty days except by order of the court on application and sufficient cause being shown for the delay.

ARTICLE 71

ACTION FOR PENALTY, FORFEITURE OR ON FORFEITED RECOGNIZANCE

Section 1175. When action for penalty or forfeiture cannot be maintained.
1176. Action for penalty or forfeiture to people.
1179. Action for penalty or forfeiture by person aggrieved.
1180. Action for penalty or forfeiture by common informer.
1181. When action by common informer not barred by a *conclusive recovery.
1182. When part of a penalty or forfeiture may be recovered.
1183. Action to recover personal property forfeited for treason.
1184. Forfeiture of and action on recognizance.

§ 1177. When action for penalty or forfeiture cannot be maintained. Whenever, by the decision of the appellate division of the supreme court, a construction is given to a statute, an act done in good faith and in conformity to that construction, after the decision was made and before a reversal thereof by the court of appeals, is so far valid that the party doing it is not liable to any penalty or forfeiture for an act that was adjudged lawful by the decision of the court below. This section does not control or affect the decision of the court of appeals upon an appeal actually taken before the reversal.

§ 1178. Action for penalty or forfeiture to people. Where real or personal property has been forfeited, or a penalty incurred, to the people of the state, or to an officer, for their use, pursuant to a provision of law, the attorney-general, or the district attorney of the county in which the action is triable, if such action has not already been brought by the attorney-general, must bring an action to recover the property or penalty in a court having jurisdiction thereof. Where the supreme court and a justice's court have concurrent jurisdiction of the action, it may be brought in either, at the election of the attorney-general or district attorney. A recovery in such an action bars the recovery in any other action brought for the same cause.

§ 1179. Action for penalty or forfeiture by person aggrieved. Where a penalty or forfeiture is given by a statute to a person aggrieved by the act or omission of another, the person to whom it is given, if it is pecuniary, may maintain an action to recover the amount thereof or, if it consists of the forfeiture of a chattel, he may maintain an action to recover the chattel or its value or other damages, as the case requires.

§ 1180. Action for penalty or forfeiture by common informer. Where a penalty or forfeiture is given by a statute to any person who sues therefor, an action to recover it may be maintained by any person in his own name, but the action cannot be compromised or settled without the leave of the court in which it is brought.

§ 1181. When action by common informer not barred by a collusive recovery. In an action to recover a penalty or forfeiture given by a statute, brought by any person other than the person aggrieved, or a public officer, the plaintiff may recover, notwithstanding the recovery of a judgment, for or against the defendant, in an action brought therefor by another person, if he establishes that the former judgement was recovered collusively and fraudulently.

§ 1182. When part of a penalty or forfeiture may be recovered. Where a statute gives to a person aggrieved or to a common informer or to the people of the state or to an officer for their use a pecuniary penalty or forfeiture not exceeding a specified sum, an action may be maintained to recover the sum specified; and the court, jury or referee, by which or by whom the issues of fact are tried, or, where judgment is taken by default for failure to appear or plead, the damages are ascertained, may award to the plaintiff the whole sum, or such a part thereof as he or it deems proportionate to the offence.

§ 1183. Action to recover personal property forfeited for treason. Where personal property is forfeited to the people upon a conviction of outlawry for treason, the attorney-general must bring and may maintain an action to recover the same or the value thereof, or such other action founded upon the forfeiture as might be maintained by a private person who had acquired title to the property.

§ 1184. Forfeiture of and action on recognizance. Where the condition of a recognizance is broken, an order of the court directing the prosecution of the recognizance is a sufficient forfeiture thereof. Where a recognizance to the people is forfeited, it is not necessary in an action to recover the penalty thereof to allege or prove any damages by reason of the breach of the condition, but where the people are entitled to judgment therein, they must have judgment absolute for the penalty of the recognizance.

ACTIONS BY JUDGMENT CREDITORS

Section 1185. Action to charge defendants not personally summoned; provisional remedies.
1186. Complaint in action against defendants not summoned.
1187. Answer in action against defendants not summoned.
1188. Judgment and costs in action against defendants not summoned.
1189. Judgment creditor's action for discovery and satisfaction.
1190. To what county execution must have issued.
1191. What property may be reached.
1192. Interest of judgment debtor in land contract may be reached and applied.
1193. Injunctions may be issued.
1194. Receiver may be appointed.
1195. How discovery may be compelled.
1196. Application of provisions for action of discovery; what property cannot be reached.

§ 1185. Action to charge defendants not personally summoned; provisional remedies. After the recovery of a judgment against joint debtors, under a complaint demanding judgment for a sum of money against two or more defendants alleged to be jointly indebted upon a contract, an action may be maintained by the judgment creditor against one or more of the defendants who were not summoned in the original action, to procure a judgment charging his or their property with the sum remaining unpaid upon the original judgment. For the purpose of obtaining an order of arrest, an injunction order or a warrant of attachment, the action is regarded as being founded upon the contract upon which the original judgment was recovered.

§ 1186. Complaint in action against defendants not summoned. The complaint in such an action must be verified, must contain an allegation that the judgment has not been paid, and must state the sum remaining unpaid thereupon at the time of the verification.

§ 1187. Answer in action against defendants not summoned. The defendant's answer in such action is restricted to defences or counterclaims which he might have made in the original action if the summons therein had been served upon him when it was first served upon a defendant jointly indebted with him, objections to the judgment; and defences or counterclaims which have arisen since it was rendered.

§ 1188. Judgment and costs in action against defendants not summoned. Where the judgment in such action is in favor of the plaintiff, it must determine the sum remaining unpaid upon the original judgment, and it may be docketed, and an execution may be issued thereupon, as if it was a judgment for the sum so remaining unpaid, and the costs, if any. Costs must be awarded as if the action was brought upon the original contract and the sum so remaining unpaid had been recovered therein.

§ 1189. Judgment creditor's action for discovery and satisfaction. When an execution against the property of a judgment debtor issued out of a court of record, as prescribed in the next section, has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, the judgment creditor may maintain an action against the judgment debtor and any other person to compel the discovery of any thing in action or other property belonging to the judgment debtor, and of any money, thing in action or other property due to him, or held in trust for him; to prevent the transfer thereof or the payment or delivery thereof to him or to any other person, and to procure satisfaction of the plaintiff's demand. Where the execution was issued as prescribed in section eleven hundred and nine of this act, and a defendant not summoned in the original action is made a defendant in an action brought under this section, personal property owned by him jointly with the defendants summoned or with any of them may be applied to the satisfaction of the plaintiff's demand as prescribed in this article.

§ 1190. To what county execution must have issued. To entitle the judgment creditor to maintain an action as prescribed in the last section, the execution must have been issued as follows:

1. If, at the time of the commencement of the action the judgment debtor is a resident of the state, to the sheriff of the county where he resides.

2. If he is not then a resident of the state, to the sheriff of the county where he has an office for the regular transaction of business in person; or, if he has no such office within the state, to the sheriff of the county where the judgment-roll is filed, unless the execution was issued out of a court other than the court in which the judgment was rendered; in which case, it must have been issued to the sheriff of the county where a transcript of the judgment is filed.

§ 1191. What property may be reached. The final judgment in the action must direct and provide for the satisfaction of the sum due to the plaintiff, out of any money, thing in action or other personal property belonging to or due to the judgment debtor or held in trust for him, which is discovered in the action; whether the same might or might not have been originally taken by virtue of an execution.

§ 1192. Interest of judgment debtor in land contract may be reached and applied. The final judgment in the action also must direct and provide for the satisfaction of the sum due to the plaintiff, out of the interest, if any, of the judgment debtor, in a contract for the purchase of real property by him, either by selling the interest, or by transferring it to the judgment creditor, in such a manner and upon such terms as the court deems most conducive to the interests of the parties. Where the person bound to perform the contract to the judgment debtor is a defendant in the action, the final judgment may direct a specific performance of the contract to the judgment creditor, or, where the interest in the contract is directed to be sold, to the purchaser. The value of the interest of the judgment debtor holding the contract must be ascertained under the direction of the court; and so much thereof as is necessary must be applied to the payment of the sum due to the plaintiff, and the residue, if any, to the benefit of the judgment debtor.

§ 1193. Injunction may be issued. A temporary injunction restraining the transfer to any person, or the payment or delivery to the judgment debtor, of any money, thing in action or other property or interest which, by the provisions of this article, may be applied to the satisfaction of the sum due to the plaintiff, may be granted in the action. The injunction is deemed to be one in which the right thereto depends upon the nature of the action.

§ 1194. Receiver may be appointed. The court, by an order or by the interlocutory or final judgment in the action, may appoint a receiver of any or all of the property of the judgment debtor; and may direct the judgment debtor or any other defendant in the action to convey or deliver to the receiver, as justice requires, any property, real or personal, book, voucher or other paper, or to execute any instrument, which it deems necessary for perfecting or assuring the receiver's title or possession.

§ 1195. How discovery may be compelled. A discovery may be compelled in such action, by directing the person required to make it to appear before the court, or a referee appointed by it, and to be examined under oath concerning the matters pertaining to the discovery. But this section does not affect the right of the plaintiff to cause the deposition of a defendant to be taken as prescribed by statute or rule.

§ 1196. Application of provisions for action of discovery; what property cannot be reached. The provisions of this article authorizing and regulating an action by a judgment creditor for discovery and satisfaction do not apply to a case where a judgment debtor is a corporation created by or under the laws of the state. Nor does it authorize the discovery or seizure of, or other interference with, any property which is expressly exempted by law from levy and sale by virtue of an execution, or any money, thing in action or other property held in trust for a judgment debtor, where the trust has been created by, or the fund so held in trust has proceeded from, a person other than the judgment debtor; or the earnings of the judgment debtor for his personal services rendered within sixty days next before the commencement of the action, where it is made to appear, by his oath or otherwise, that those earnings are necessary for the use of a family wholly or partly supported by his labor.

ACTIONS AGAINST JOINT DEBTORS

Section 1197. Action against defendants jointly indebted when all are not served.
1198. Effect of judgment in such action.
1199. Execution; indorsement; enforcement.
1200. Judgment, how docketed; effect of docketing.
1201. Action against partner not joined in action on partnership liability.

§ 1197. Action against defendants jointly indebted when all are not served. In an action wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money against two or more defendants alleged to be jointly indebted upon contract, if the summons is served upon one or more but not upon all of the defendants, the plaintiff may proceed against the defendant or defendants upon whom it is served, unless the court otherwise directs; and, if he recovers final judgment, it may be taken against all the defendants thus jointly indebted.

§ 1198. Effect of judgment in such action. Such a judgment is conclusive evidence of the liability of each defendant upon whom the summons was personally served or who appeared in the action. Where it is taken against a defendant upon whom the summons was served by publication or without the state, pursuant to an order for that purpose, he or his representative, on application, upon good cause shown and upon just terms, must be allowed to defend after final judgment, at any time within one year after personal service of written notice thereof, or, if such a notice has not been served, within seven years after the filing of the judgment-roll. As against such a defendant who is allowed to defend after judgment, or as against a defendant not summoned, it is evidence only of the extent of the plaintiff's demand, after the liability of that defendant has been established by other evidence.

§ 1199. Execution; indorsement; enforcement. An execution upon such a judgment must be issued, in form, against all the defendants; but the attorney for the judgment creditor must indorse thereupon a direction to the sheriff containing the name of each defendant who was not summoned and restricting the enforcement of the execution, as prescribed in this section. An execution against the person issued upon such a judgment shall not be enforced against the person of a defendant whose name is so indorsed thereupon. An execution against property issued upon such a judgment shall not be levied upon the sole property of such a defendant; but it may be collected out of personal property owned by him jointly with the other defendants who were summoned, or with any of them, and out of the real and personal property of the latter, or of any of them.

§ 1200. Judgment, how docketed; effect of docketing. Where a judgment has been taken against two or more defendants jointly indebted upon contract and the summons has been served upon one or more of the defendants, but not upon all of them, the clerk with whom the judgment-roll is filed must write upon the docket opposite or under the name of each defendant upon whom the summons was not served the words "not summoned"; and a like entry must be made by each county clerk with whom the judgment is afterwards docketed. The judgment does not, by virtue of its being docketed, bind any real property or chattel real owned by such a defendant. But this section does not affect the plaintiff's right of action to charge the judgment upon any real property.

§ 1201. Action against partner not joined in action on partnership liability. Where, for any cause, one or more partners have not been joined as defendants in an action upon a partnership liability, and final judgment has been taken against the persons made defendants therein, the plaintiff, if the judgment remains unsatisfied, may maintain a separate action upon the claim against the person omitted partner, setting forth in the complaint the facts specified in this section as well as the facts constituting his cause of action upon the demand.

MATTERS BEFORE SURROGATE GILL

The will of Luther Quick of the town of Rochester was filed with surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court Friday morning and a citation for its probate was issued returnable November 1. To his wife, Mary E. Quick, the testator bequeaths the sum of $500 in lieu of dower rights. The sum of $1,000 is bequeathed to his brother, Hiram A. Quick, in trust, the income from which is to be paid to the testator's daughter, Mary A. Quick, at whose death the principal of such trust fund is directed to be paid to the descendants of such daughter, or if there are no descendants, then to be next of kin of the testator. The balance of the estate is given by the testator to his daughter, Leona I. Quick, and her mother is appointed her guardian. Mrs. Quick and Hiram A. Quick are appointed executors. The will was executed July 28, 1904, and witnessed by Virgil S. Van Wagenen and the late Hon. Reuben Bernard. The value of the real estate is $1,500 and the personal property amounts to $1,500. This work in our county, which is not only a notable philanthrophy but a great economic saving for our county and a big piece of humanitarism, has long needed greater financial support than it has received and this ball will set the bigger ball of public interest and help a-rolling.

Rockefeller Foundation Now Has Disease Confined to Few Seed Beds—Malaria and Hook Worm in South To Be Dealt With.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Remarkable results attained within the last year in the world war against disease waged by the Rockefeller Foundation give definite assurance that yellow fever will be wiped from the globe and the southern part of the United States freed from malaria and hook worm, Dr. George Vincent, head of the Foundation, declared here today.

The greatest brains in medical science are being mobilized by the foundation in every section of the globe in preparation for next year's campaign, which, according to plans disclosed by Dr. Vincent in an interview, will be the most aggressive yet waged in the movement to make the world safe from disease.

So great has been the progress of the fight against yellow fever that the disease is now restricted to a few seed beds, Dr. Vincent announced.

He disclosed that it is more likely that a means of identifying yellow fever has been found through the investigations and experiments of Dr. Hydeio Naguchi, distinguished bacteriologist connected with the Rockefeller Institute. The Japanese physician has discovered a vaccine which has proved effective in protecting non-immunes from infection.

Experiments conducted in forty southern towns have demonstrated that the control of hookworm is a simple matter of sanitation and the eradication of that disease and malaria depends chiefly upon the co-operation of the public with the public authorities. Dr. Vincent stated.

SWANN ENTERS BASEBALL INQUIRY

Seeks Attell To Get On Trail Of "Higher Ups"—More Dodgers Talk With Lewis But No Scandal Regarding Coming World's Series Leaks Out.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 2.—Investigation of the New York angle of the 1919 world's series scandal was given added impetus today when District Attorney Swann "threw his hat into the ring."

Agents calling at the district attorney's office were assigned to the task of unearthing evidence and running down clues that point to a number of New Yorkers who are said to have been the "men higher up" in the "fixing" of the series last fall.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Harry Lewis of Kings county continued his interrogation of members of the Brooklyn Club, though the report that an attempt had been made to "fix" the 1920 series by buying off a number of the Brooklyn players lost much of the original color.

District Attorney Swann let it be known that agents of his office are searching for Abe Atteil, the former featherweight pugilist.

"It is my belief that Attell is telling the truth when he says he knows the men who did the 'fixing' in the 1919 world's series."

Five members of the Brooklyn team visited the offices of District Attorney Lewis before noon today. Ed. Konetchy, Tommy Griffith, Charles Elliott, Johnny Miljus and Peter Kilduff were closeted with the district attorney in turn. The interviews were brief and the players were reluctant to talk when they came out.

"It looks like a bunch of terrible talk," was the only comment Ed. Konechty would make.

Asked for an opinion regarding the reports from Chicago that State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne had said he is in possession of information that an attempt was made to fix the 1920 series, the Brooklyn players expressed the opinon that somebody seems to be trying to make a name for himself.

District Attorney Lewis sent a telegram to State's Attorney Hoyne at Chicago again today, asking him to forward any evidence in his possession, relative to the reported attempt to fix the coming series.

BROOKLYN TEAM UNCORRUPTED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 2.—Investigations conducted by District Attorney Lewis concerning reports that an attempt had been made to "fix" the coming world's series have failed to disclose any facts that would lead to the belief that the members of the Brooklyn team have been approached or that there is anything wrong with the plans for the series, he announced this afternoon.

Milk—The nominal wholesale price is $3.85 100 lbs. delivered in New York.

The New York city markets for farm products were plentifully supplied during the week with fruits, vegetables and other commodities and there was a general decline in wholesale food prices. There is no reason, however, for connecting this decline with the lowering of prices for manufactured articles.

Apples showed the greatest drop in price. Continued heavy arrivals, unfavorable weather conditions and dull trade caused a slump in some varieties of as much as two dollars and a half per barrel since the close of last week.

Jonathans "A" grade, 4¼ to 2½ inch, which sold for $5.00 to $6.50 per barrel on Monday declined to $4.00 to $5.00 on Friday. The Baldwin, the good pie apple, brought from $3.50 to $5.00 per barrel on Monday and declined to $3.00 to $3.50 on Friday.

The prices of other New York State apples were on Friday for "A" grade 2¼ to 2½ in. in double headed barrels containing three bushels. Alexander $3.00 to $4.00; Duchess, $2.50 to $3.00; Gravenstein, $3.00 to $4.00; North Greening, $3.00 to $4.00; Wolf River, $3.00 to $4.00; Wealthy, $3.00 to $4.00; Fall Pippin, $3.00 to $3.50; Greening, $2.50 to $4.00; Twenty Ounce, $3.00 to $4.00; McIntosh, $3.00 to $5.50.

The Truth, Well Told.

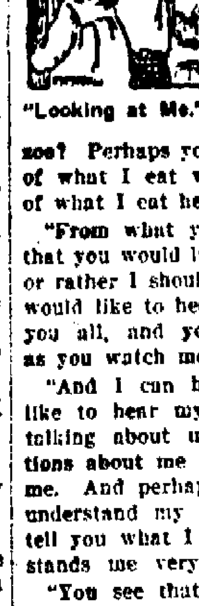

Editing a newspaper is a nice thing. If we publish jokes, people say we are rattle-brained. If we don't, we are fossils. If we publish original matter they say we don't give them enough selections. If we give them selections they say we are too lazy to write. If we don't go to church we are heathen. If we do go we are hypocrites. If we remain at the office we ought to be out looking for news items. If we go out then we are not attending to business. If we wear old clothes they point at us, if we wear good clothes they say they don't know how we afford it. Now, what are we to do? Just as like as not someone will say that we stole this from an exchange, which would be correct.—Rhinebeck Gazette.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GREAT ANT-EATER.

"Looking at Me."

"Children who are visiting the zoo today, I see that you are looking at me," said the Great Ant-Eater. "I notice that you seem to be very much interested in my appearance. You think my great, long nose or snout or face or whatever you want to call it is very strange, don't you? And perhaps you'd like to hear more about me, of my ways and of what I do when I am free and what I do here in the zoo? Perhaps you would like to hear of what I eat when I am free and of what I eat here?

"From what you are saying I see that you would like to hear my story, or rather I should say I see that you would like to hear it from looking at you all, and your interested faces, as you watch me.

"And I can hear that you would like to hear my story, for you are talking about me and asking questions about me and wondering about me. And perhaps where you cannot understand my talk the keeper will tell you what I mean, for he understands me very well, indeed.

"You see that I am very unusual. That means I'm different. I'm not like all animals you see every day, or every other day or once a week. You see me in the zoo, perhaps, but you don't see me running around the streets.

"Now I have long toothless jaws which taper—or go off—to rounded point at the end where my mouth is. I do not mean to say that my jaws fall off or anything like that. But they taper, or get narrow gradually until there is a little rounded point—at the end of my face or jaws, and there is my mouth!

"My mouth is a very small mouth. It is nothing more than a little narrow opening and so I could never eat great big pieces of food. My front claws are very strong and they're good-sized, too. I use them when I am free to tear open ant hills and to break up old logs, where ants are to be found. I walk, they say, as though I were club-footed, but you don't need to pay any attention to such a remark as that, unless you want to. I wouldn't bother about it, if I were you!

"My tail is very long and very thick and looks like a great and magnificent brush. Perhaps you have never seen a magnificent brush and in that case you can look long and admiringly upon my tail. I do not mind it the least!

"My home is in South America and there I fed upon ants in the great forests. The ants are not liked by people and so I not only help them but I do my marketing where they wouldn't care to trade and I don't take off the best things from the markets where they do care to trade! Here, in the zoo, they give me milk and raw eggs and a few other little delicacies, as they can't feed me ants such as I used to get in South America.

"Ah, I did a good work there and all my relatives will keep up the good work. It is smart of creatures to do good and feed themselves well at the same time. That's smart, indeed. That is destroying things that would hurt people and yet not taking from them any of the food they might like themselves.

"Stick Out My Tongue."

"When I eat, if you will watch me, you will see how interesting I am when I stick out my tongue for some little distance before I take in my food. They say that if any person should stick out his or her tongue it would be very, very rude, but with me it is not rude; it is merely the way I eat. And so I think it is worth watching, for every creature doesn't eat that way. Perhaps you may be very glad of that!

"Some creatures have felt sorry for me because I hadn't any teeth, but I do not mind it the least. No, not in the least. I eat food that doesn't require chewing and if one doesn't want to chew, why bother about teeth?

"I eat the sort of food that suits me and my little, narrow mouth and my toothless jaws and I am perfectly happy, children. So don't feel badly because I have no teeth, as you have!

"And thank you for listening to my story, which, I hope, has interested you!"

Maligned.

The Bubble—I don't see why they compare swindles to me—I'm perfectly clean.

A few of the hundreds of wooden ships built by the United States Shipping Board during the war which are being permitted to rot in the rivers of the country. This photograph was made from an army airplane and shows some of the vessels tied up in the James River, Va. During the war the boats were used for transporting supplies to Europe. After the armistice they were apparently of no use, there being no bids made for their purchase and their use to the Government having passed. Their waste entails a loss of millions to the Government.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A very good pie may be made using a combination of prunes and rhubarb. Stew the prunes, using a cupful of prunes to two cupfuls of rhubarb. If both are cooked the combination may be put into a baked shell and covered with a meringue; otherwise the mixture is sweetened and covered with a crust.

A few jars of canned vegetables put up for the very little people is a good investment. The mixture especially recommended is spinach, carrots, a stalk of celery and an onion, all processed together and sealed. In the winter this may be served as a vegetable or put through a sieve and served as a purée.

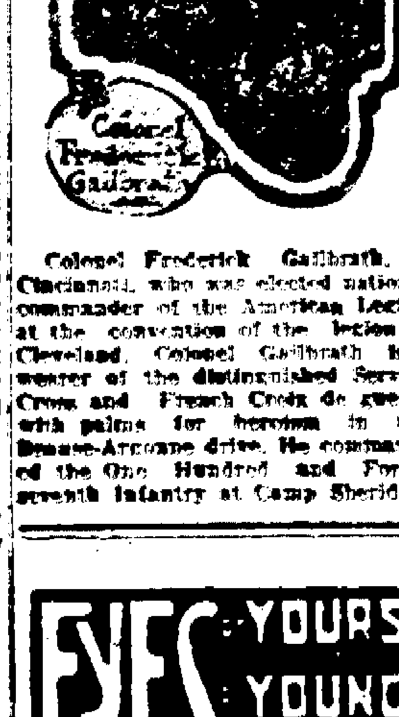

Chicken Soup With Vegetables.—Peel a quart of small onions and boil until tender, changing the water three times. Line a soup tureen with thin slices of toast, cover with onion, add one pint of cooked peas and two quarts of boiling chicken stock. Serve immediately.

Coffee Blanc Mange.—Take two cupfuls each of coffee and milk. Add four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch to four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Cook until it thickens, then pour into a wet mold to chill. Serve with cream and sugar; cream may be either plain or whipped.

Flap Jacks.—Use any good griddle cake batter and cook the cakes the size of a tea plate. Spread with butter, sprinkle with brown sugar, or, better, maple sugar, and, lacking either, jelly or jam; pile in layers of six; cut and serve like pie.

Tuna Fish Salad.—Soak one-half envelope of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water, add three-fourths of a cupful of hot salad dressing or dissolve over hot water; add one-half cupful of chopped celery, one green pepper, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika, mix and turn into individual molds rinsed in cold water. Turn out on crisp lettuce and garnish with minced parsley or a spray of parsley on top.

To Remove Lead From Gunbarrels.

Chemically pure and strong nitric acid will dissolve the lead in a gunbarrel, and will not injure the metal of the barrel unless the acid becomes diluted with a little water. To remove the acid, pour all of it out and wipe the gun dry with a rag soaked in olive or cottonseed oil. Do not get the acid on the hands or clothes. If by chance this happens it should be washed off immediately with water and then some weak alkali.

Eskimos are scattered through Greenland, Canada, Alaska and Siberia to the number of about 32,000, all of whom seem to speak the same stock language, using the same stem words and affixes. The chief characteristic of the language is that single words of complex structure are used to express ideas that in English would be conveyed by a whole sentence.

CLEVELAND AS GOOD AS WINNER

Can Hardly Fail To Cop Pennant Now and Velock Believes They Have Slight Edge On Dodgers In Short Series Despite Latter's Army of Pitchers—First Game Tuesday.

(By Jack Velock)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 2.—Tris Speaker's snappy Cleveland Indians are almost as good as under the wire today with the American League pennant.

One more victory for the Indians or a defeat for the White Sox will settle the race in Cleveland's favor. There is a remote chance of a tie, but in such an event the patched up Chicago team could not hope to cope with the Indians in a play off for the championship.

It is practically certain, therefore, that the Indians will face the Brooklyn Dodgers in the initial game of the world's series at Ebbets Field next Tuesday afternoon.

The series will mark the first time in the history of modern baseball a Cleveland team has contended for the coveted title and despite the big scandal now under investigation at Chicago the struggle promises to attract genuine interest throughout the country as usual.

The Cleveland Indians are not the best team that ever represented the junior major league in the world's series, but from this angle they look like the next world's champions.

They are one of the most aggressive troupes of players ever gotten together. They bristle with fighting spirit.

On the defensive, the Cleveland club is a smooth working, flashy fielding machine. On offense it is a team with a powerful punch, backed up by plenty of baseball brains.

In the Dodgers Cleveland will meet a club with plenty of morale that can and will fight for every game. Like Speaker, Manager Wilbert Robinson is the "pal" of his players.

He is the kind of manager that gets the last ounce of baseball out of every man and he ranks with the best of baseball managers.

Reams of speculative "dope" might be written comparing individual players, but the fact remains that one of the rival teams is going to win the series because it has the stronger punch. Incidentally, this team will also get the best of the so-called "breaks" because of its superior punching power.

The writer believes Cleveland has the superior punch. Speaker's team hasn't the pitching strength of the Dodgers but it has two wonderful moundsmen in Jim Bagby and Coveleski and the team batting average of .300 it has amassed this season speaks volumes.

In aggressiveness and all-around team work Cleveland has more snap than the National League champions and with careful handling of his pitchers, Manager Speaker should be able to hold his own against Brooklyn's "young army" of slabmen.

Burleigh Grimes, Sherrod Smith, Pfeffer, Mamaux, Cadore and Marquard are Brooklyn's bulwarks of defense.

Grimes is Robby's ace. The others are all pitchers of sterling calibre, but Grimes alone can be compared with Bagby and Coveleski.

Aside from superior pitching the Dodgers outrank the Indians in but one other department, and that is the infield. The Dodger inner cordon of defense is better balanced and somewhat more consistent in all around play. The loss of Ray Chapman was a severe blow to Cleveland and though Brooklyn has generously consented to permit Sewell to play the Indians will gain but little as he is a weak hitter.

Brooklyn's outfield, though boasting Wheat and Meyers, is no more powerful than the Indians, which is built around Tris Speaker, the last word in fielding excellence.

Cleveland has the call in the catching department. The answer is Steve O'Neill. Otto Miller, Brooklyn's first string catcher, is a good, steady receiver. But he is not an O'Neill.

That the Dodgers will put up a stiff fight seems certain, but though they, too, are good hitters, they lack the same punch at the bat that Cleveland possesses and it is the belief of the writer that Bagby and Coveleski, with Mallon, Cadore or Uhl to bridge a gap between games, should prove equal to the task of holding their own against superior numbers.

Special Speakers.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will hold its October meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Crane, Abruyn street, on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 5th, at 3 o'clock. It will be the privilege of the ladies to have with them Mrs. Edward Cary, of Poughkeepsie, president of the North River Presbyterian Society, who will address the meeting. As this is the month set apart by the board of home missions for the study of Alaska, Mrs. Hewitt Boice who has just returned from travelling there, has consented to be present and tell of her impressions. Mrs. Harry Yale will sing. All the ladies of the congregation are cordially invited.

C. J. Dutcher Injured.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chatham, Oct. 2.—C. J. Dutcher's shoulder and ribs were bruised in an automobile accident Thursday at "dead man's curve" between Wappingers Falls and Poughkeepsie, and taken to Poughkeepsie hospital. He was one of a party of Chatham Masons who accompanied Disrtict Deputy William P. Boright on his official visit to the lodge in Beacon and were on their way home. In making a quick turn, the car sideswiped a tree, throwing Mr. Dutcher against the side of the back seat.

THAT THE PUBLIC MAY KNOW

Rising Costs and the Utility Commissions

As indicating the seriousness of the Public Utility situation generally, we quote from David E. Blair of the Missouri Public Service Commission:

"Reasonable compensation must go hand in hand with adequacy of service. The cost of rendering that service must be provided for in the rates, regardless of franchise limitations, as the State cannot suffer its police power to be abridged or limited by a franchise entered into between a municipality and its utility. Bare cost of operation does not furnish or guarantee ability to render service and no utility can long remain in a position to render adequate service unless it can show earnings to those who own its stock and bonds."

The Kingston Company, caught by the tremendous increase in the cost of essential materials and selling its service at an inadequate rate, is not only making no earnings but is operating at a heavy loss.

MAC SWINEY NOW SINKING FAST

With Tempting Food at Hand, He Refuses Last Appeal to Eat By Physician — Endurance Astonishes World and Clandestine Feeding Rumor is Exploded.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 2.—A last appeal to accept food was made to Terence Mac Swiney in his cell at Brixton jail early today by his physician.

The doctor warned the hunger striking lord mayor of Cork that he was sinking fast and begged him to take nourishment.

Mac Swiney, so weak that he could not even speak, merely shook his head.

The prisoner began his fifty-first day of his hunger strike today.

Within easy reach of the patient there was again placed early today a veritable banquet—no rich or heavy food, but tempting bits of nourishment just sustaining enough to give him a new lease of life and not to heavy to disrupt his system. For the patient is so close to death that the slightest exertion, even of his masticating organs would bring on a coughing spell or a heart attack that would rip off the thin thread by which his spirit is clinging to life.

Mac Swiney's endurance has come to be looked upon as a twentieth century miracle by the whole scientific world of Europe. All the reports and rumors that he was being clandestinely fed have been definitely exploded, not only by unbiased visitors to his cell who spent long hours with him in close observance, but by the unimpeachable word of famous doctors. The last of these to make the positive statement that Mac Swiney's fast was a "straight" one was Sir Norman Moore, noted specialist, whose dictum dispelled the doubts even of the most skeptical.

Never since the lord mayor was first locked up in the historic Brixton gaol has the atmosphere been filled with such virtual certainty that his death is but a few hours at hand.

"Work Poor."

Charles M. Schwab at one of his Loretto dinner parties was talking about a man who was vainly beseeching the banks for a loan. "He's a rich man, too," said Mr. Schwab; "but he's work poor." "Work poor?" said a guest. "Yes, work poor," Mr. Schwab repeated. "You see, he's always got so many operations in hand that he's always short of money to finance them. Work poor, I call it." Then he smiled and added: "He's one of those fellows who dig so much that they're always in a hole."

U. S. RECEIPTS NOW EXCEED EXPENSES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 2.—There was a decrease of $237,315,995 in the public debt of the U. S. during the month of September, according to an announcement by the treasury department today. The total gross debt of the country September 30 had been reduced to $24,087,356,-128.

This decrease was due, it was announced, to the fact that the government no longer was paying out funds for operation of the railroads and other essentially war expenditures. The statement today, it was pointed out, bore out the prediction of Secretary Houston that the entire receipts of the country now were considerably in excess of the ordinary disbursements.

East Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 24, 1920.

Forsyth & Davis Motor Car Co.,
Kingston, N. Y

Gentlemen:

On the 14th of this month we started for Stamford, Delaware Co., N. Y., with our Franklin Brougham, carrying four adults, my little granddaughter and a quantity of luggage. We made the trip in about three hours stopping on the way for lunch.

We remained in Stamford for several days, in the meantime taking short trips over the mountains to Oneonta, Cooperstown, Prattsville, Hobart, Kortright and several times back to Roxbury; mountain climbing all the way, making 514 miles on 25 gallons of gasoline and 3 quarts of oil, and only lost 2 pounds pressure in our tires. Before leaving Stamford for home we filled the gasoline tank and upon our arrival here, drove up to the Central Garage and told Mr. Kennedy to fill the tank, which he did with two gallons of gasoline, in fact the second gallon overflowed the filler pipe; making the trip home of 79 miles on a little less than two gallons of gasoline.

Of course after leaving Highmount we had down grade, but did not coast, keeping in gear all of the way. Had no trouble of any kind, and the engine never missed once.

I am writing you knowing that the performance of the Franklin on this trip would be of interest to you.

Very truly yours,
